

Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Sunday 17 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Mostly dry this morning, rain spreading east this afternoon.

Today:

Mainly dry in the morning with some brightness, a few showers in the west. Cloud and rain will extend across most areas in the afternoon, although the far south may remain dry.

Tonight:

Showers or longer spells of rain across central and northern areas through the evening and night. South drier but some rain likely later in the night. Brisk westerly winds.

Monday:

Southern and central areas cloudy with rain at times. Some brightness in the north, with showers in the northwest and Northern Isles.

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:

Mainly dry and cold on Tuesday and Wednesday, coastal showers in the north. Remaining cold on Thursday with wintry showers becoming more widespread.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.